

OTTAWA - WINTER 2016

OTTAWA IN THE WINTER	Ottawa is a celebrated Canadian city-break hot spot and a destination that changes with the seasons. At any time of year there is no better place than Ottawa for a romantic getaway, a weekend girlfriend's fling, a celebration... or a much needed break. And what better time than when the snow begins to fall and the ice appears on the lakes? Plus the Christmas and New Year's Holidays are great opportunities to take a slightly longer weekend break in our Nation's Capital. Ottawa in Winter is a wonderful place. With so many open spaces and a will to enjoy the winter weather, this is the place to be when the mercury drops. Plan to participate in the huge celebrations for New Year on Parliament Hill if you can. Christmas Lights across Canada National museums, monuments, and other landmarks provide the perfect backdrop for Christmas Lights that brighten Confederation Boulevard from Dec 7 2016 to January 7 2017. Alight at Night – Upper Canada Village Almost a million lights adorn this historic site: horse-drawn wagon rides, shop at the Village store and dine at the Harvest Barn from Dec 2 to 31. Together with Festivals like the Ottawa Food and Wine Festival in November and continued great exhibitions at Ottawa's cultural attractions – there is always something fun to do in our Nation's Capital.
Location	Ottawa lies in northeast North America, in the Province of Ontario, Canada. It is bordered by the Ottawa River to the north, while the historic Rideau River and Rideau Canal meander north to south through the city. Directly across the Ottawa River are the City of Gatineau and the picturesque Outaouais region in the Province of Québec, situated 114 metres (374 feet) above sea level.
Geography	These twin cities of Ottawa and Hull are full of unexpected pleasures -- you can watch the debates and pomp of parliamentary proceedings, take in the street scene from a sidewalk terrace, ski or camp or hike in wilderness only 15 minutes away, and then put your feet up before the fireplace of a rustic inn.
Name	Derived from Outaouak, an Algonquin First Nations name

2017 – Our 150th Birthday!	There will be a huge celebration in Ottawa next year in 2017 It's Canada's big year! Ottawa is where you'll want to be for Canada's 150th birthday. As Ottawa is Canada's Capital – that is where many of the country's biggest celebratory birthday events will happen. 2017 will bring the biggest Canada Day celebration the country has ever seen! But the fun will not be limited to July 1. From new exhibitions at Ottawa's national museums, to special performances and exciting technological installations in Ottawa's downtown core, special events will be taking place all year long. Ottawa 2017 is tasked with creating 12 full months of big, bold, immersive and moving experiences that will complement national celebrations and annual events and festivals. Big Signature Events will animate the entire city, while community celebrations will enliven our neighbourhoods. At the same time, transformative legacy projects will change the Capital's urban landscape. The end result: a special year of national pride with many Signature events: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • JUNO Week & the 2017 JUNO Awards: Beginning on March 27, 2017, Canada's Capital will come alive with Canadian music. Throughout the week, enjoy various musical performances, workshops and other activities that showcase the diversity of Canada's vibrant music scene. The week will then culminate with a grand celebration of the country's musical elite at the JUNO Awards, which will take place at the Canadian Tire Centre on April 2, 2017. • Interprovincial Picnic: On July 2, 2017 (the day after Canada Day), Ottawa's well-known Alexandra Bridge, which links the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, will be converted to a park with actual grass, inviting families and small groups to enjoy a picnic above the Ottawa River. This event can accommodate 650 people at a time and spaces can be rented for a small fee! Visit the 2017 Celebrations Ottawa website for more details. • The 105th Grey Cup—the annual championship game of the Canadian Football League – will take place in Ottawa with a week of celebrations prior to the game around November 20-26, 2017 (exact start date TBD). • 2017 Canadian Videogame Awards: Ottawa will be home to the Canadian Videogame Awards in November 2017(exact dates to be announced)! The gala celebration will take place at the Canada Aviation and Space Museum, but the Ottawa 2017 Bureau will host a national championship for gamers as well. And the best part? The competition's semi-finals and finals will be projected onto various buildings across the city. If you're a gamer, Ottawa is where you want to be in 2017!

- It will also be the Lord Elgin Hotel's 75th anniversary

There will also be a lasting legacy for Ottawa from 2017:

- Ottawa Light Rail Transit: Ottawa's new Light Rail Transit Confederation Line could be open for preview visits in 2017.
- Ottawa Art Gallery and Arts Court: The Ottawa Art Gallery will reopen following a $100 million redevelopment, including a 21-storey mixed-use tower (Le Germain hotel and condominiums), a 250-seat multi-purpose and film-screening room, a 120-seat theatre and more
- NAC: The National Arts Centre will undergo a $110 million redevelopment that includes the revitalization of the entrance, as well as some of the public and performance spaces.
- Bank of Canada Museum: Formerly known as the Currency Museum of the Bank of Canada, this museum closed to the public just over a year ago to undergo renovations. It will reopen in 2017 in a newly renovated building on Sparks Street. Here, you will find the most comprehensive collection of Canadian coins, tokens and paper money. Official reopening date to be announced.
- Canadian Museum of History: The museum closed a hall about a year ago to renovate and make room for the new Canada History Hall. The history of Canada's First Nations people is expected to be more prominently displayed in this new hall, which will open on Canada's 150th birthday; July 1, 2017.
- Canadian Museum of Nature: If you're interested in animals and nature, this is a museum you don't want to miss. A brand new and permanent Arctic Gallery will open in 2017. The new gallery is part of the museum's five-year initiative to enhance and advance research, collections, education and exhibits focusing on Canada's majestic Arctic. Official opening date to be announced.
- Canada Science and Technology Museum: Home to massive steam powered trains and many other Canadian technological advancements, this museum is currently closed as it is undergoing an $80 million renovation. The renovation will see new exhibition spaces, fire-suppression systems as well as modern exterior and interior facades put in place, among many other things. The museum will reopen in 2017. Official reopening date to be announced.
- Bytown Museum: Housed in Ottawa's oldest stone building –

The Sunset Ceremonies usually occur at the stables at the end of June each year
History	The Ottawa region was long home to the Odawa or Odaawaa First Nations people. The Odawa are an Algonquin people who called the river the Kichi Sibi or Kichissippi, meaning "Great River".

	The first European settlement in the region was that of Philemon Wright who started a community on the Quebec side of the river in 1800. Wright discovered that transporting timber by river from the Ottawa Valley to Montreal was possible, and the area was soon booming based almost exclusively upon the timber trade. Liked by many European nations for its extremely straight and strong trunk, the White Pine was found throughout the valley. In the years following the War of 1812, in addition to settling some military regiment families, the government began sponsored immigration schemes which brought over Irish Catholics and Protestants to settle the Ottawa area, which began a steady stream of Irish immigration there in the next few decades. Along with French Canadians who crossed over from Quebec, these two groups provided the bulk of workers involved in the Rideau Canal project and the booming timber trade, both instrumental in putting Ottawa on the map. The region's population grew significantly when the canal was completed by Colonel John By in 1832. It was intended to provide a secure route between Montreal and Kingston on Lake Ontario, by-passing the stretch of the St. Lawrence River bordering New York State (the U.S invasions of Canada in the War of 1812 being a recent memory). Construction of the canal began at the northern end, where Colonel By set up a military barracks on what later became Parliament Hill, and laid out a town site that soon became known as Bytown. Original city leaders of Bytown include a number of Wright's sons, most notably Ruggles Wright. Nicholas Sparks, Braddish Billings and Abraham Dow were the first to settle on the Ontario side of the Ottawa river. The west side of the canal became known as "Uppertown" where the Parliament buildings are located, while the east side of the canal (wedged between the canal and Rideau River) was known as the "Lowertown". At that time, Lowertown was a crowded, boisterous shanty town, frequently receiving the worst of disease epidemics, such as the Cholera outbreak in 1832, and typhus in 1847. Ottawa became a centre for lumber milling and square-cut timber industry in Canada and, in fact, for North America as a whole. From there, it quickly expanded further up (or westward along) the Ottawa River, and logs were boomed by raftsmen great distances down the river to the mills. Bytown was renamed Ottawa in 1855, when it was incorporated as a city.

Napoleon and Paris – (until Jan 8, 2017)

Napoleon's extraordinary life is inextricably linked to Paris. From his rise to power to his fall from grace, Paris was the theatre for some of the key moments in his career. A man of war, Napoleon made Paris the capital of an empire. A man of ambition, he revived Paris' glittering court life. A man of vision, he reshaped the city and filled it with enduring institutions. An exhibition produced by the Musée Carnavalet – Histoire de Paris, Paris Musées and the Canadian Museum of History.

Gold Rush! El Dorado in British Columbia (until Jan 15, 2017)

Relive the tumultuous days of gold's discovery in British Columbia's Fraser Canyon. Travel back to 1858 and meet some of the tens of thousands of fortune-seeking prospectors who dreamed of astonishing finds — like the huge Turnagain Nugget. Find out how the gold rush attracted thousands of miners and entrepreneurs of various social and ethnic origins and forever transformed this once-remote region of the Pacific North West. More than 280 artifacts tell the fascinating story of gold's timeless allure, including miner's tools and personal belongings, a real stagecoach, an exquisite gold box carved by Bill Reid and iconic contemporary items such as gold records and Olympic medals.

Horse Power (until Apr 17, 2017)

Exquisite craftsmanship combines with the romance of bygone days in this sumptuous exhibition of 18 horse-drawn sleighs and carriages. Handcrafted between 1770 and 1950, these elegant conveyances once transported Catholic cardinals, Montréal millionaires and governors general. Today, the artistry of the carriage makers lives on in the graceful lines of these lovingly restored antiques. Phaeton, coach, hansom cab or brougham sleigh, each one showcases a different regional style and demonstrates how climate and geography influenced design in the era of horse-powered transportation. On loan from Québec's Musées de la civilisation Paul-Bienvenu Carriage Collection, these pieces belong to the finest collection of horse-drawn vehicles in

Get eyeball to eyeball with deadly snakes, colourful lizards and bizarre turtles. You'll discover cool facts and get a new appreciation for these misunderstood creatures. The exhibition's science and conservation messages aim to dispel common myths and demonstrate how reptiles fit into the animal kingdom and their native environments. The show is produced by Clyde Peeling's Reptiland in Allentown, Pennsylvania, creators of the popular Frogs exhibition hosted by the museum in 2013.
National Gallery of Canada	The story of the National Gallery of Canada began in the late 19th-century with a simple dream: that Canadians should have a national gallery to call their own. It would be a place to showcase Canadian art; to preserve, study and teach about this vast nation's cultural heritage; and to acquire magnificent works from around the world. It would expose us to great art from all periods and in all its manifestations: paintings, photographs, sculptures and more. Today, the National Gallery of Canada is one of the world's most respected art institutions, revered for its scholarship, applauded for its ability to engage audiences of all ages and all levels of artistic knowledge, and renowned for its exceptional collection of approximately 65,000 works of art. It makes its home in a grand, light-filled structure of glass and granite, in which visitors can find a cloistered garden courtyard, a glass-bottomed pool, and a reconstructed 19th-century chapel. For more information and updates on activities at the National Gallery of Canada, watch their website at www.gallery.ca Alex Janvier (November 25 2016 – April 17 2017) This major retrospective celebrates Alex Janvier's lifetime of creativity, knowledge and perspective, gained through his love of the land, art and Dene culture. Come discover more than 150 remarkable paintings and drawings, including works that have never been on public display and well-known masterpieces. Visitors will have an unprecedented opportunity to appreciate Janvier's unique style, with its vivid colours and calligraphic lines. He combines Denesuline iconography with Western art styles and techniques, such as automatic painting and modernist abstraction. Universal in appeal, his paintings on paper, canvas and linen reference Indigenous culture and history and explore his experience of residential schools and the effects of colonization.

ATTRACTIONS	Parliament Hill - Parliament of Canada - Tours Schedules and tours of the Centre Block (the main Parliament Building) vary – sometimes without notice – according to the time and the day on which you choose to visit, especially when Parliament is in session. Tours are shorter and do not go to the Senate and House of Commons chambers when they are in use.
Wildlife	Open all year, Parc Oméga, Route 323 nord, Montebello, a nearby wildlife park, is distinctive by season, barely recognizable in both fauna and vegetation in summer as compared to winter. At the entrance, elk wait for one of the carrots purchased with your tickets, only a foreshadowing of the animals to be spotted on the drive, most of which stroll up to your car to take their snacks from your hand. Among the most visible are whitetail deer, wapiti, bison, fallow deer, raccoons, and wild boar, all of which roam free. Kept in large enclosures are black bears, timber wolves, and raptors, including bald eagles. With luck, you may see a reclusive moose.
Parks	Gatineau Park Managed by the NCC, Gatineau Park is a superb nature reserve just 15 minutes from Parliament Hill. It serves as a reminder that environmental protection is a cherished Canadian value, and its objective is to ensure the permanent preservation of a vast natural territory for the enjoyment of all Canadians. The Park is endowed with hundreds of kilometres of trails, forests containing more than fifty species of trees, abundant wildlife and numerous crystal-clear lakes typical of the hills of the Canadian Shield. Summer and winter, visitors can participate in outdoor activities or simply enjoy the tranquility of a protected natural environment. http://www.canadascapital.gc.ca/bins/ncc_web_content_page.asp?cid=16297-16299-10170&lang=1
Gardens	As Canada’s Capital, Ottawa is well known for its impressive landmarks, sites, and attractions. But equally appealing is the city’s beautiful natural setting of rivers, waterways, parks and pathways – and the many marvelous gardens that colour its urban yet unspoiled cityscape. Beginning with the early spring arrival of crocuses on Parliament Hill, then continuing through May’s Canadian Tulip Festival and on into summer and early autumn, Ottawa’s beds are abloom with beauty – and welcome visitors to discover their flowering favourites. The National Capital Commission maintains 90 flower beds in 30 different sites, including Parliament Hill. CUISINE	The culinary scene in Ottawa has come alive in recent years, with a thriving community of Ottawa chefs and Ottawa restaurants making names for themselves both at home and abroad. Located in the historic Sandy Hill neighbourhood in downtown Ottawa, Le Cordon Bleu Ottawa Culinary Arts Institute has been a driving force behind this culinary resurgence. It is the only Canadian campus of this world renowned culinary training school – and includes Signatures Restaurant where anyone can sample the delights of exceptional French cuisine. As well as Ottawa's restaurants – here are two rather different ways to enjoy the foodie scene in Ottawa. Both of these activities can be booked at weekends so you can plan them as part of a short break in the Capital. C'est Bon Gourmet Food Tours allow you to explore Ottawa's neighbourhood food markets, discover local produce and dishes, and meet area chefs and food artisans. Find the hidden treasures with the help of expert and insightful guides.- current tours explore Ottawa's ByWard Market, Preston Street, Chinatown, Wellington West and the Glebe neighbourhoods, as well as Eddy Street in old Gatineau. These delightful epicurean outings last an hour and a half to two and a half hours each. They're casual walking tours, so be sure to dress comfortably and allow for the weather.

	Le Cordon Bleu Ottawa Culinary Arts Institute offers short cooking courses to the public ranging from half day to four days in length. Some are offered at the weekend – so this is something that a visitor to Ottawa could easily fit in as part of their stay. Though the courses are taught by the same teachers who educate the budding chefs at the Le Cordon Bleu Ottawa Culinary Arts Institute - everyday cooks should not be intimidated. These really are courses for everyone. Course topics include Cake decorating, Healthy Cuisine, Knife Skills, Potatoes and Oh Chocolat amongst many others. Ottawa Tasting Tours – contemporary food and wine tour in Byward Market. The ByWard Market Food & Wine Tour takes you along the historic path of Ottawa’s ByWard Market. Along the tour you will learn about Ottawa’s rich history and how Canada’s Capital came to be. On the tour you will stop at four of the Market’s top restaurants allowing them to showcasing their relaxing atmosphere and award winning cuisine. Each restaurant represents one course of your meal that features locally prepared and unique cuisine. Wines are hand selected and paired accordingly. Guides are professional sommeliers and will fill you in on everything you need to know about wine tasting.

Here are three personally recommended restaurants in Ottawa:

le café (@ the National Arts Centre)

Put yourself in the charismatic hands of Chef Michael Blackie! Fine Dining along the Historic Rideau Canal. Situated in Canada's National Arts Centre, le café offers the perfect blend of fine dining and artistic ambience in the heart of downtown Ottawa. The picturesque setting and inspired menu make le café ideal for a relaxed luncheon or a night on the town. Savour the best in contemporary Canadian Cuisine and internationally-inspired dishes. le café is also proud to offer a varied selection of Canadian wines. Reservations recommended. Open Monday to Friday for lunch and dinner, Saturday dinners only and Sunday brunch. <http://www.nac-cna.ca/en/lecafe/lecafe>

Signatures Restaurant

Signatures Restaurant offers you exceptional cuisine, a unique setting and luxurious hospitality for your next culinary experience. More than just a bistro, Signatures Restaurant brings a modern twist to a fine dining experience. Combining modern cuisine with relaxing decor and a stress-free ambience, Signatures Restaurant can be your oasis. Their menus showcase an outstanding selection of the local seasonal ingredients with bold creativity and artistic presentations during lunch or dinner. Every week they feature a new original lunch menu showcasing the talents of their dedicated team. Dinner menus also reflect the changes of the seasons.

Located in the historic Munross mansion, just steps from the Rideau River, Signatures Restaurant offers elegantly appointed banquet rooms, winding staircases and crystal chandeliers, something unique to the city of Ottawa.

Signature Restaurant & Laurier House - lunch and tour package - Begins with a 3 course lunch served at Signatures Restaurant at le Cordon Bleu. You are then met by a guide from Parks Canada, where you will be provided with a guided tour of the Historic Laurier House, the former residence of two of Canada's most important Prime Ministers. For over fifty years this Victorian mansion served as the residence of both Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King.

	Zak's Diner – in Byward Market Some of the hotels that I have enjoyed staying at include: The Westin Ottawa Hotel, Fairmont Chateau Laurier, Indigo Hotel.
Travel Show Magic Moments in Ottawa	I often include a specific a-ha moment from my trips to the destinations we feature on the show. Here are a few Travel Show Magic Moments from my past visits to Ottawa: “It was one of those Ottawa November mornings with a fresh breeze blowing and a hint of winter’s chill in the air...but when I passed through the doors of the Holtz Spa in downtown Ottawa opposite the Rideau Centre, the warm scented air of its relaxed atmosphere immediately enfolded me like a warm blanket. The stress and tension of the day fell away and I felt as though I had slid gently into an alternative universe of calm and tranquility. And this was before my spa treatment! My classical Thai massage took me further into my own universe of gentle massage, aromatherapy and natural sounds. Afterwards, I was brought slowly back to reality by the light and delicious fare at Santé, the healthy eating restaurant on-site at the spa. Now my mind was clear and I was ready for all the cultural attractions of our Nation’s Capital that were all just a few minutes’ walk away from this lovely spa...” “Among the kaleidoscope of tulips and the many other spring festivals in Ottawa, there is one dear to my heart – and that is the Ottawa Race Weekend. This is the largest multi-day running event in Canada and attracts over forty thousand participants over a weekend in May each year. A few years ago I ran the Ottawa Marathon as part of this event. We started off on a beautiful spring morning from one of the many downtown parks in the city and ran past the throngs of cheering supporters through the streets of Ottawa and over the Chaudiere Bridge into Gatineau on the other side of the Ottawa River. I was trying to qualify for the Boston Marathon, so I was pushing myself hard as we turned south past the Museum of Civilisation (now the Museum of History) and onto the Alexandra Bridge over the Ottawa River. And that is where I had my Magic Moment. Half way across the bridge, I looked up to my right and there, illuminated in the spring sunshine like an ethereal palace from a children’s fairy tale, was Parliament Hill in all its very Canadian glory. I stopped dead in my tracks. Literally. In the middle of my race. A small group of other runners also stopped beside me. And one by one, we panted: “Wow”! And then we got going again, but with that image to spur me on, I managed to cross the line just inside my qualifying time. And now on every visit to Ottawa I try to return to that breath-taking vantage point.”

“It’s high summer in Ottawa and I am broadcasting an on-location Travel Show from the most beautiful patio in Ottawa! The broadcast equipment is piled on a table at La Terrasse, the open air window on Ottawa at the capital’s iconic hotel, Fairmont Chateau Laurier. As we come to a break in the show, a glass of chilled white wine appears beside me and I feel a gentle breeze coming off the Ottawa River, tempering the summertime heat. The view from the Terrasse epitomizes Ottawa: immediately below me is the Rideau Canal with its locks allowing entry to the Ottawa River. On the other side, a classic view of Parliament Hill, brightly illuminated in the sunshine under a cloudless sky. I am so much at one with the moment that I almost miss my cue back into the broadcast...”

“I am standing on a balcony overlooking a vast hangar full of flying machines. Stephen Quick, the Director of the Aviation and Space Museum in Ottawa is guiding me around this collection of more than 130 aircraft and artifacts - such as propellers and engines - from right across the military and civilian worlds. The Museum aims to engage visitors with the wonder of flight through this spectacular collection and its educational programming – and I am suitably engaged! It’s the most extensive aviation collection in Canada and one of the finest in the world. My father was in the Royal Air Force for five years during the Second World War, so I am particularly drawn to this section of the museum. However, when I fly the museum’s simulator and try to land my plane, I end up in the nearby woods rather than the runway, so I clearly have not inherited his flight talents!”
