The Tauck Story	In 1924 Arthur Tauck was a budding 26-year-old entrepreneur, selling aluminum coin trays of his own design to banks throughout New England. It was a fateful sales trip that brought young Arthur to North Adams, Massachusetts that autumn, where he spent the morning enjoying the local scenery. The area's fall foliage was in full display, and Arthur savored the colors as he lunched at the Wigwam Restaurant on the Mohawk Trail, just east of the Berkshires. Given the beauty of the foliage, Arthur was surprised to notice that the restaurant's only other patrons were travelling salesmen like himself. He concluded that there were no leisure visitors enjoying the scenery because few outsiders knew the area well enough to travel through it without guidance. As Arthur later reflected on this insight, an idea grew in his mind. He possessed the expertise necessary to show people the beauty of New England he'd discovered on his travels. Intuitively he sensed that vacationers would gladly attempt a travel adventure if they could sign on with a knowledgeable guide. The guide would provide for their comfort and show them the sights on beautiful back roads they would otherwise be reluctant to travel independently. Arthur would be that guide, and his guests would simply travel along with him on one of his sales trips. Arthur's first "Tauck tour" was a six-day, 1700km, all-inclusive trip that cost his six passengers $69 each. Traveling in a rented Studebaker, the group toured the Berkshire and Adirondack mountains and visited Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont, New York and Canada. More than 1500kms of the trip were over dirt roads, but the passengers didn't

	seem to mind. The group traveled in the morning, and enjoyed afternoons at area attractions and resort hotels while Arthur made his sales calls to banks. For Arthur, that initial trip was little more than a lark - a hunch that he'd indulged - and at first no additional trips were planned. But when word-of-mouth endorsements from his original six passengers prompted nearly 20 inquiries about future trips, Arthur knew he was onto something. Arthur planned additional trips, and his new business grew. By 1929 Arthur had purchased several buses and begun to promote his tours in earnest, simultaneously serving as tour director, guide and driver. And Tauck's signature style of traveling - an approach that still drives the company to this day - was developed and refined. Tauck journeys would provide authentic, engaging discovery of the areas they visited. A friendly, knowledgeable guide would highlight the sights and places along the way, providing in-depth insights into local culture, history, flora, fauna and more. And the trips would combine the indulgence of the finest hotels and superior dining with the ease and assurance of knowing that all the mundane chores of travel were reliably handled by someone else. Nearly 90 years later, Tauck World Discovery is the world's leading escorted travel operator. The company has been named the “#1 Tour Operator &amp; Safari Outfitter” three times by the readers of Travel &amp; Leisure magazine, and it enjoys the travel industry's highest return-guest rate. Tauck is still a family company, and today Arthur's son, Arthur Tauck, Jr., serves as company chairman. Arthur Jr.'s son-in-law, Dan Mahar, is the company's CEO and a Board Director, and his daughter, Liz Tauck Walters, also serves on the Board. Headquartered in Norwalk, Connecticut, Tauck’s well-choreographed land journeys and cruises – one- and two-week+ land journeys, riverboat cruises, small ship cruises, and Tauck Bridges family travel adventures across the globe – are life enriching, inspirational and memorable, complemented by a dedicated do-it-all-for-you service that has been the cornerstone of the company – great value, from start to finish.

New for 2015 - Europe	For Europe in 2015 Tauck is introducing a new small-group itinerary highlighting Italy’s Puglia region and a pair of in-depth, six-day, World Cities explorations of Paris and Rome. The new “A Week in... Puglia” itinerary is limited to an average of just 24 guests per departure, and it is Tauck’s first-ever tour of the region comprising the “heel” of the Italian “boot,” an area renowned for its unique architectural styles, culinary traditions and archeological wonders. Tauck’s eight-day itinerary (from $3,990 per person, double occupancy, plus airfare) begins in seaside Savelletri di Fasano with a four-night stay at a traditional “masseria,” a fortified country farmhouse converted into a five-star hotel. While based in Savelletri di Fasano, Tauck guests will sample local vintages at an area winery and take part in a hands-on cooking lesson to discover other Apulian culinary traditions. Guests will also visit the Paleolithic-era cave dwellings at Matera and 13th-century Castel del Monte in Adria (both UNESCO World Heritage Sites), and learn about Puglia’s traditional limestone “trulli” houses. Guests will next enjoy a tour of the centuries-old cave village of Lama d’Antico, and a tasting of locally produced organic olive oils, while en route to the city of Lecce. During a two-night stay there, guests will visit the studios of a Lecce-born sandstone sculptor and a local papier-mâché artist, whose detailed figures depict 18th-century life. A chance to explore the whitewashed village of Ostuni precedes a final night back in Savelletri di Fasano, where guests will enjoy a farewell dinner and overnight accommodations at the Borgo Egnazia resort, a member of the prestigious “Leading Hotels of the World” collection. “A Week in... Puglia” begins and ends in Bari, with departures operating from March through June and in September and October.

NEW WORLD CITIES JOURNEYS IN PARIS AND ROME

Following the successful launch of its World Cities itineraries in London and Florence in 2014, Tauck will double its World Cities portfolio next year with the addition of in-depth explorations of Paris and Rome. Like the London and Florence itineraries, “World Cities... Paris” and “World Cities... Rome” are six-day, city-specific tours with daily sightseeing “tracks” that each explore a different cultural theme. World Cities journeys also feature a small group size (an average of 24 travelers), and each operates with multiple departures per year.

“World Cities... Paris” (from $4,690 per person, double occupancy, plus airfare) includes five nights’ accommodations at the InterContinental Paris Le Grand Hotel with 2015 departures from April through October. Themed sightseeing tracks include “Paris for Insiders,” providing guests with behind-the-scenes insights during visits to iconic Parisian locations including the Eiffel Tower and the Louvre, and “Parisian for a Day,” which features a guided shopping experience along Rue Montorgueil, where guests will buy wine and ingredients for an hors d’oeuvres platter they’ll prepare under a chef’s guidance at Les Halles Bistro. A “Vive la Revolution” track will explore sites central to the French Revolution, and the Day 4 “City of Art & Love” theme will be highlighted by a musicologist-led tour of the lavish Garnier Opera House, plus an enlightening discussion with an expat American artist in her studio.

With departures from March through July and again from September through November, “World Cities... Rome” (from $4,290 per person, double occupancy, plus airfare) has sightseeing tracks delving into the city’s history (“Many Layers of Rome”) and its importance as the seat of Catholicism (“Center of Faith”). Tauck guests will also venture outside the city to Castel Gandolfo, Albano Laziale and Cisterna di Latina to explore “Myths & Legends,” and returning to Rome, a “La Dolce Vita” track contrasts the colorful working-class Monti neighborhood with insider visits to a historic palace and a private villa.

	“World Cities... Rome” will provide unique perspectives on popular attractions, including after-hours tours of the Vatican Museums and Sistine Chapel, as well as an exclusive visit to the Colosseum that explores the underground chambers where gladiators prepared for battle. Guests will also experience “insider” visits to lesser-known locations when they have dinner inside a 2,000-year-old home, during an exclusive visit to the medieval Garden of Ninfa, and when they enjoy their farewell dinner at Villa Aurora, the 17th-century home of Prince Nicolo and Princess Rita Boncompagni Ludovisi, with a tour of the villa led by the princess herself. Like all Tauck journeys, the new European itineraries are fully inclusive, with accommodations, sightseeing, admission to all attractions, ground transportation (including airport transfers), luggage handling, most meals and gratuities, and much more included in the price. TAUCK’S “GIFT OF TIME” OFFER Tauck is encouraging its past guests to make their 2015 European travel plans early with its Gift of Time offer. Full details on Tauck’s European land journeys (plus selected European river and small ship ocean cruises) are highlighted in the company’s new “Yellow Roads of Europe” brochure, currently mailing out to agents and consumers. Those interested in learning more can contact their local travel agent, call Tauck at 800 468 2825, or visit www.tauck.com.
New for 2015 - Global	Tauck’s new 13-day “Myanmar: A Road Less Traveled” itinerary begins in Thailand with two nights at the Shangri-La Hotel, Bangkok, where guests spend a full day exploring the city. After flying to Yangon, Myanmar and spending two nights at the Belmond Governor’s Residence, guests then fly to Mandalay where they’ll board the Belmond Road to Mandalay riverboat for a three-night cruise southward along the Ayeyarwady River. Following their cruise, guests next enjoy two-night stays in Bagan and Inle Lake (at the Bagan Lodge and Villa Inle Resort &amp; Spa, respectively) before returning for a final overnight in Bangkok at the Shangri-La Bangkok and flying home. along the Ayeyarwady, with the two-night stay at the Bagan Lodge featured on Nights 5 and 6, rather than on Nights 8 and 9 as described above.)

Throughout the 13-day journey, Tauck guests will experience local history and culture first-hand at temples, palaces, pagodas and monasteries, and in visits to local markets, traditional artisans' studios, rural villages, museums and a nursery school. Guests will also view the local landscapes from a variety of perspectives, including those provided by a traditional long-tail boat, tuk tuk, train and hot-air balloon.

“Myanmar: A Road Less Traveled” is priced from $9,240 (per person, double-occupancy) plus international and on-tour airfare. Included in the price are 32 meals, all sightseeing and other featured activities, gratuities to all local guides, hotel and restaurant staff, airport transfers, luggage handling and much more. Tauck will operate departures in January, February, March, October and December of next year.

Tauck’s new “Dubai & the Arabian Peninsula” journey travels to Doha (Qatar), Muscat (Oman) and Abu Dhabi and Dubai (UAE), with multiple-night stays throughout in luxurious hotels including The Ritz-Carlton Abu Dhabi Grand Canal and the Fairmont The Palm, Dubai. The 12-day journey juxtaposes images of stunning modernity with the region’s rich history, as a progressive “zero-carbon” village and communities built entirely on man-made islands contrast dramatically with visits to centuries-old forts, traditional souks and ornate mosques.

Tauck guests will also be immersed in the Arabian Peninsula’s history during museum visits in Doha, Dubai and Muscat, and they’ll discover its religious and cultural traditions as they participate in an enlightening discussion at a center for cultural understanding.

Other cultural experiences will include dinner with a local Omani family, the opportunity to meet Arabian horses during a private tour of an equestrian center, and the chance to learn about the Middle East’s 2,000-year-old history of falconry at the Abu Dhabi Falcon Hospital. Guests will also be treated to a Tauck-exclusive dinner and evening at the Dubai Desert Conservation Reserve, where they’ll enjoy local music and dancing and have the opportunity to ride aboard a camel, get a henna tattoo, and smoke a traditional, aromatic shisha pipe.

“Dubai & The Arabian Peninsula” is priced from $7,420 (per person, double-occupancy) plus international and on-tour airfare. Included in the price are 26 meals, all sightseeing and other featured activities,

New for 2015, the 12-day Tauck Bridges “Grand European Family Holiday” ($7,417 per person, triple occupancy, plus international and on-tour airfares) begins in London with a three-night stay at the iconic The Langham, London. While there, Tauck guests will tour sites associated with the Harry Potter tales, traveling by special arrangement aboard the Hogwarts’ Knightbus (used to rescue stranded wizards in the Harry Potter stories). Families will also join in for a sleuthing adventure involving fictional characters from Sherlock Holmes to the Tardis of the Dr. Who television series, culminating outside BBC’s London studios. Other highlights include a tour of the Tower of London, dinner at a traditional British pub, and a trip in a private capsule on the London Eye.

After traveling to Paris through the Chunnel aboard the Eurostar train, Tauck guests will take a relaxing cruise along the Seine, and explore the worlds of fine art and fine chocolate with time at the Louvre and with renowned French chocolatier Jacques Genin, respectively. Other highlights in Paris include a memorable dinner on the first floor of the Eiffel Tower, and a fun visit to stunning Chateau Vaux le Vicomte (said to be the inspiration for Versailles) where younger guests will tour the opulent palace in 17th-century costumes.

Tauck guests will then fly to Rome and travel overland for a two-night stay in Umbria, where they’ll participate in a truffle-hunting competition using trained dogs, enjoy an authentic local lunch at a country home, and tour a farm that raises alpacas and angora goats. In Rome, where the tour concludes with three nights at the Boscolo Exedra Roma, families will have an exclusive, after-hours tour of the Vatican Museums and Sistine Chapel, and experience the majesty of the Colosseum. After participating in a fun “sculptural safari” in the city’s main piazzas, searching for various animals on carved fountains, buildings and

Besides having the chance to search out the Big Five on game drives, Bridges travelers will get up-close with elephants, cheetahs, eagles, monkeys, ostriches and penguins, and they’ll look for marine mammals on a whale and seal-watching cruise on Plettenberg Bay. For an authentic taste of local culture, guests will visit a tribal village and rural school in Kruger National Park, visit the former home of Nelson Mandela during a bicycle tour of Johannesburg’s Soweto neighborhood, and enjoy a traditional braai barbecue. Through the partnership, Tauck guests will gain insights and perspectives on tour as they view a number of short, destination-specific films produced exclusively for Tauck by the team at BBC Earth. Guests will also employ a number of high-tech devices used by BBC Earth filmmakers to reveal the natural wonders of each destination, from underwater cameras that bring travelers face-to-face with marine life, to motion-activated infrared camera traps that capture videos and images of indigenous nocturnal animals that most travelers never see.
