2. Ready to Camp:

Discover the joys of camping in 25 natural territories across the province - without having to bring or to buy your own equipment. "Ready to Camp" packages make for easy, comfortable stays in the heart of nature - and you don't have to bring any equipment. All ready to camp options come fully equipped with camping style furniture, heating, lighting, stove, fridge, dishes and more.

Sépaq has a "ready-to-camp" formula! Ideal for those who don't have their own camping equipment and for tourists from outside of Québec, the "ready-to-camp" formula makes it possible for would-be campers to rent a campsite with a tent-trailer already set up for them when they arrive. All they have to bring is food, sleeping bags and personal items. The tent-trailers used by Sépaq can accommodate between four and six people. Some 40 "read-to-camp" sites are available at 13 of Québec's national parks. And four National Parks offer Yurts - Mongolian-style circular tents - for a special experience

Mastigouche	Website: http://www.sepaq.com/rf/mas Fishing in The Sorcerer's Kingdom 145 km NE of Montreal, Réserve faunique Mastigouche is a calm and relaxing spot that is ideal for vacationing. In addition to traditional hunting and fishing activities, hiking and canoe-camping give visitors the opportunity to discover the many attractions of this rich territory. Camping enthusiasts will be captivated by Lac Saint-Bernard. Wildlife includes some thirty species of mammals including moose, white-tailed deer, black bear, wolf, lynx, hare and several species of birds including Ruffed Grouse, Loon, Osprey and Golden Eagle.

Chris Robinson Associates Inc does not warrant the quality, accuracy or completeness of any claims, statements or information contained within this document. This document was created at the time of broadcast and may not be current.

History: Réserve du Parc Mastigouche, later named Réserve faunique Mastigouche, was created in 1971 as part of "Accessibility"-a government operation to democratize hunting and fishing activities. The aim was to buy up territories formerly occupied by exclusive fish and game clubs and make them available to the people of Québec. Here, most of the territory was covered by three clubs: The Mastigouche, The Saint-Bernard, and The Commodore. Their members were largely Americans.

Looking at the heritage left by these private clubs, we cannot help but admire the built environment of the Commodore Club. Several of its loghouse lodges have stood by the shores of Lac Shawinigan for a century. Located on an exceptional site and built using dovetail joints, they are the pride of the reserve and are available through fishing or vacation packages.

The name Mastigouche comes from the name of the former private fish and game club, which was granted in 1881 to Élisabeth Copeland de Berthier. It's believed to mean "where the wood is small" in an Amerindian language, probably Atikamekw.

In 1971, the territory was established as a hunting and fishing reserve under the name of Réserve du Parc Mastigouche. For several years, it was better known by the name of Parc Mastigouche. Its classification as a wildlife reserve dates to 1979.

Attractions: While staying in Réserve faunique Mastigouche, don't miss its main attractions:

- Les Six-Chutes (six waterfalls)
- Le Chicot
- Maubèche falls
- The exceptional woods of the Saint-Bernard campground

Lac Sorcier is one of the most popular lakes of Réserve faunique Mastigouche. It owes its name to an old legend about a sorcerer who haunted the island in the lake and kept people awake at night by making strange noises. How did this lake become a home for landlocked salmon? The explanation is almost a legend in itself. Around 1920, the members of the former Saint-Bernard Club seeded Lac Saint-Bernard, Lac Sans-Bout, and Lac Sorcier with landlocked salmon from Lac Saint-Jean. Over time, the salmon have disappeared from Lac Saint-Bernard and Lac Sans-Bout, but they're still frolicking in the waters of Lac Sorcier.

Fishing with Accommodations: There are nearly 135 fishing lakes in 6 accommodation sectors: Ouabiti, Sable, Des Îles, Shawinigan, Houde-Patoulet, Violon: If you're interested in a fishing stay, lakes for next-day fishing are assigned by random draw, every evening, at the

Saint-Maurice	Website: http://www.sepaq.com/rf/stm History: In 1668, a promise to grant a seigneurie was made to Maurice Poulin. Not until 1723, however, did the fief and the river, then called the fleuve, become associated with the place name Saint-Maurice. In 1886, some territories were leased for hunting and fishing. As logging developed, other leaseholds were established. Between 1886 and 1963, several cabins were built for members of private fish and game clubs. In 1963, to remedy a shortage of free land accessible for hunting and fishing, the government took back land leased for hunting and fishing and created Réserve de chasse et de pêche du Saint-Maurice. Its operation was entrusted to a group of users called Syndicat de la réserve Saint-Maurice. They managed a 209 km² territory including such lakes as Lac Brown, Lac Inman, Lac Wessoneau, Lac Baude, and Lac Normand. People could hunt and fish while staying in cabins or on campgrounds. Day fishing was also offered. In 1966, the government decided to integrate this territory into its network of hunting and fishing reserves and to take over its management. In 1979, its status as a wildlife reserve was made official. In 1995, Réserve faunique du Saint-Maurice was transferred to Sépaq. Logging led to the creation of the main accommodation facilities of Réserve faunique du Saint-Maurice, notably those by Lac Brown (J.J. Crête), Lac Wessonseau, and Lac Tousignant (C.I.P.). Attractions Among the many species of wildlife, one especially retains attention, the kokanee. A small population of kokanee salmon (Oncorhynchus nerka), probably unique east of the Rockies, was introduced into Lac Normand with the dismantling of Expo 67. It's the same species as the sockeye but is confined to a lake. The Canadian pavilion had kokanee eggs on display to show the public how this species developed during its embryonic stages. When the eggs were introduced into Lac Normand, the idea was to provide its lake trout with food. The kokanee managed to find sufficient conditions in Lac Normand to meet their needs for feeding and reproduction. Their plankton-feeding ability accounts in part for their survival and maintenance in this habitat. forest landscapes where nature has retained all its rights. With its 1,510 km² of territory and 163 km of hiking trails, Parc national du Mont-Tremblant is the largest park in Québec.

A Realm of Lakes and Rivers: Four hundred lakes, some small and intimate, others vast and windswept, six rivers dotted with waterfalls and cascades, and a multitude of streams, help to create a magnificent natural realm.

Rivière L'Assomption: With a varied course that combines calm sections and rapids ranging in difficulty from Level I to IV, Rivière L'Assomption, which runs for 15 km through the park, is considered one of Québec's best teaching rivers. Three campgrounds are available for canoeing enthusiasts.

The Meandering Diable: The spectacular character of the course is attributable to the peaceful bends and backwaters that the river has traced along the rocky face of Mont de la Vache Noire. Duration: the outing lasts 3 to 4 hours, including transportation. A canoe and passenger transportation service is available.

Birds and Other Wildlife Wonders: Birdwatchers will be right at home in the park: to date, 196 species of birds have been surveyed. In addition, the park is home to a highly diverse wildlife population. Bears, hares, wolves and beavers invite you to discover their environment.

The Totem Poles at Place Centenaire: Three professional sculptors from the region have each created an immense totem pole made out of white pine. Totem poles, which are an ancient means of communication, convey different messages that are accessible to everyone. Each totem pole represents a different facet of the park, whether it be its economic history, its recreational-tourism vocation or its flora and fauna.

Camping, Experiencing Nature the Way It Was Meant to Be:

Whether you are looking for the comfort of a full-service campground or the charm of more rustic sites, a camping stay in the park will allow you to experience nature the way it was meant to be.

Breathtaking Waterfalls: Spend a few minutes, or a couple hours for that matter, at the Chute Croches, Chute du Diable and Chute Aux Rats waterfalls. They contribute to the great splendour of the land and soundscapes.

Via Ferrata: Located at Parc national du Mont-Tremblant, the Via Ferrata du Diable is a trail on the cliffs of the Vache Noire at the entrance to La Diable. Whether you are at a beginner, intermediate or advanced level, you will never forget this hike, which you will embark on with a guide. You will safely walk over beams, cross various types of bridges and two footpaths. You will slowly make your way to a footpath that will give you a bird's-eye view of the Rivière du Diable. At the peak, after climbing to 200 m in altitude, you will literally be amazed by the spectacular view of the mountains, which surround the trail.

It's also the ideal way to squeeze a few extra weeks out of summer and enjoy the pleasures of camping in the crisp, colourful fall weather. At the heart of the activities, the Lac-Stukely campground has everything you need with its 15 Huttopia tents in Le Mélèze in Mont-Orford. Period: May to October
Îles-de-Boucherville	Parc national des Îles-de-Boucherville is an 8 square km haven of nature and pleasure located right in the middle of the St. Lawrence just 10 kilometres from downtown Montréal. For walkers, canoeists, and cyclists in the mood for fresh air, it offers green spaces, channels teeming with life, and trails by the water. There's no better antidote to the noise and worries of the city. Several guided discovery activities unveil the secrets of the plant and wildlife treasures on these five St. Lawrence islands. Stroll along the channels that separate the islands and that are home to the Osprey, Northern Harrier, Great Blue Heron, and several species of duck. While you are at it, why not cross the islands on a bicycle by taking the 20-km bicycle path that leads through a luxuriant landscape. Canoeing and Sea Kayaking: A boat ride takes you into the fascinating world of the waters that bathe the Îles de Boucherville. Hiking and Cycling: Hikers and cyclists can discover the site's most beautiful attractions on the 20-km "multi-purpose" trail network, while enjoying picnic areas, magnificent viewpoints and self-guided discovery activities. The relatively flat relief of the islands will suit the entire family. Close to 10-km of "rustic" trails offer a unique hiking alternative. Since the surface of these trails is mown grass, only walkers are authorized to

	use them. Three rustic trail loops are located on Île Sainte-Marguerite: Grand-Duc (1.5 km), Petite Rivière (2.5 km) and Grande Rivière (4 km). Île aux Raisins has a 3.5-km loop (departure from the observation tower on Île de la Commune). You can rent bicycles, trail-a-bikes and child chariot carriers on site. Discovery and Visitor Centre: the magnificent permanent exhibit entitled "A String of Islands in a Mighty River" is sure to interest you. Using the latest museum techniques, it provides a magnificent overview of the richness and uniqueness of the park, evoking, among other things, the main chapters in the island's story of human habitation since prehistory. In many respects, this is a great starting point for an unforgettable visit. In addition, come see the permanent exhibit on the park's history, presented at the Visitors Centre on Île Grosbois.
Mont-Saint-Bruno	A representative element of the Monteregian hills natural region, Parc national du Mont-Saint-Bruno has five lakes, an apple orchard, a historic mill, and dozens of kilometres of woodland trails. Some 200 species of birds and some forty species of mammals share this little corner of paradise. Indeed, like other Monteregian hills, Mont Saint-Bruno constitutes an important woodland habitat in the Greater Montréal urban environment. In winter or summer, take advantage of the pure and healthy air of this oasis of peace just 20 kilometres from the metropolitan area. Stroll along the hiking trails that go around the five lakes including Lac des Atocas, which is in the process of becoming a peat bog (eutrophication), and go to the observation platforms and docks on some lakes to explore the rich and diverse natural environment. Give in to your curiosity and visit the old flour mill dating back to the Montarville seigniory and discover the history of this magnificent territory and its occupants. Admire the forest of Parc national du Mont-Saint-Bruno, which includes a variety of species including sugar maple, oak, and linden. You can even savour delicious fresh apples! Local conditions are ideal for apple growing and apple trees bloom each spring. In addition, the Arboretum boasts a collection of sixty tree species. A 27-km network of trails circles several lakes: Lac Seigneurial, Lac des Bouleaux, Lac des Atocas, Lac du Moulin and Lac de la Tortue. Hikers can discover the natural beauty of Mont Saint-Bruno. Several points of interest are sure to charm: the Old Mill and its permanent exhibit, the moonstone, the Arboretum, and a unique view of Montréal. Also, a new 3.5-km hiking trail, starting from the Visitors Centre, now offers a more rustic alternative. You can also do a shorter loop of 1.5 km within this circuit. A vast array of souvenirs, clothing for adults and children, discovery products for young people, and outdoor articles is offered at the

	Boutique Nature. All profits are re-invested in the park to enhance its conservation. By choosing our Parcs Québec collections, you are joining us in the development of Québec's natural and cultural heritage. Parc national du Mont-Saint-Bruno offers you a host of guided nature discovery activities. From the beginning of May to the end of October, take part in a guided tour and discover spring plants, frogs and snakes, animals and birdlife, geology, forest, secrets of the pond and the history of the park, in the company of a park warden.
Oka	Parc national d'Oka, located about 50km or 45 minutes from the Metropolitan Montréal Area, is a diverse patchwork of natural habitats that are fascinating by reason of their differences. The diversity of animal and plant species in this region of southern Québec is a major natural asset and explains, in part, the human presence over the centuries. From Colline du Calvaire to Lac des Deux-Montagnes, history manifests itself in many ways. Parc national d'Oka has a rich historical heritage... part of the story of our roots is told there! Come discover the true nature of Oka, while taking advantage of a wide array of educational and recreational activities, whatever the season. Let yourself be enchanted by the green surroundings of Parc national d'Oka. Next to the lake stands a pine forest, a vestige of the great eastern white pine forests that once were abundant along Rivière des Outaouais. Break away from the routine and discover a surprising natural environment not far from Montréal. In Grande Baie and Rivière aux Serpents, the land and water combine to produce wetlands that are veritable ecological treasures. With their almost tropical air, wetlands play host to fascinating forms of life. The splendid wood duck, threatened with extinction early in the last century, has made its home in this nesting site, the most productive in Québec. Follow the traces of the aboriginal peoples and the first colonists on the trails leading to the Calvary site. The fragments found in the Oka area testify to aboriginal presence spanning thousands of years. Indeed, most of the fragments date back to 2,200 to 2,500 B.C. From Colline du Calvaire to Lac des Deux Montagnes, the history of the Sulpicians and the evangelization of the aboriginals by the Trappist Brothers are retold in life size re-enactments. Take part in numerous outdoor activities, such as cycling on a segment of the Route Verte bike path, swimming in Lac des Deux-Montagnes or hiking on the many trails. In the winter the snow-covered trails are ideal for cross country skiing, snowshoeing and snow walking. Camp in tranquility in a huge campground. Why not treat yourself to the Turnkey Camping Package? It includes campsite rental, a 6-person tent, a ground sheet, a rechargeable lantern, a propane camp stove or a woodstove with firewood (one bag of fire-starter and one bag of logs by

	night) in the winter. In summer, the beach comes alive with swimmers who flock to the park to bask in the sun and cool off in the lake under the watchful eye of a team of lifeguards. Picnickers can choose from a variety of peaceful lakeshore sites for a peaceful outdoor meal.
Plaisance	Plaisance: the Park's very name conjures up the peacefulness of its landscape, with its many bays, islands, peninsulas as well as the multicolored tapestry of its aquatic grassbeds. In spring, Plaisance offers a breathtaking spectacle of one hundred thousand Canada geese; in summer, it is a paradise for ducks, herons, ospreys and dozens of other species. Visitors will adore the exquisite breeze of Rivière des Outaouais as it ripples through the grasses of Petite Presqu'île, not far from the campground. Parc national de Plaisance, the latest addition to Québec's national park network, is yours to discover this summer – 160km from Montreal Ornithology: Close to 240 bird species, at least 100 of which are nesters, can be observed at one time or another throughout the year. The park's wet zones are among the best potential habitats for wild birds in Canada. Zizanie des marais (Wild rice): Enter "Zizanie des marais" and enjoy the many forms of life in this extraordinary wetland habitat that is home to a host of different plants and animals. This 1-km trail features a floating boardwalk that runs alongside the marsh of Baie Parisien. As you walk quietly along this trail, you will find yourself at the heart of a floating garden where great blue herons, ospreys, Canada Geese and other species come to feed. From atop the observation tower at the end of the boardwalk, there is a remarkable view of the surrounding landscapes and, in season, of the migratory birds that congregate here. The Springtime Return of the Geese: From the end of April to mid-May, the bays and marshes of Parc national de Plaisance are the stage for a breathtaking natural spectacle: the return of the Canada Geese, which make a stop-over here during their spring migration northward. Some 100,000 Canada Geese, along with several species of diving and tip-up ducks, spend time on the shores of Rivière Outaouais. For the occasion, the Outaouais Birdwatchers' Club organizes a number of activities. Following the Traces of the Algonquians in a Canoe: Follow the traces of the Algonquians and the runners-of-the-woods who used to draw up alongside "Fort de la Petite-Nation", and explore the calm waters of Plaisance, away from the currents and traffic on Rivière Outaouais. The park's many bays, its marshes, the notched shores of its islands and peninsulas, and the mouth of Rivière de la Petite Nation all form a fabulous territory that promises numerous discoveries, hours of fun, and an opportunity to let your imagination have free reign.

	Swimming: Campers and visitors have access to the park's pool. An unsupervised beach is also open to swimming and is located along Baie de la Pentecôte, on the north shore of Petite Presqu'île. Canoeing and Kayaking Excursions: Get away from the stress, the noise and the hassles of everyday life. Jump into your canoe and paddle along still waters in the company of ducks, irises, turtles and dragonflies. Plenty of relaxing moments and natural surprises await you! The park's notched bays and marshes lend themselves perfectly to this memorable calm water adventure. You can rent canoes and kayaks at the Plaisance Interpretation and Visitors Centre and the Thurso Information Kiosk. Hiking: Zizanie des marais (wild rice) is the name of an aquatic plant that abounds in the park and that is considered a delicacy by moose, muskrats and various wetland birds. It is also the name of a 1 km trail with a floating boardwalk and an observation tower, next to a marsh teeming with birds, fish, mammals, reptiles and amphibians. The trail entrance is located 500 m from the entrance of Petite Presqu'île. From the Interpretation and Visitors Centre, you can also take 3 magnificent hiking trails and discover more of the park's habitats (Le Carouge, Les Baies and La Sarcelle). Combining these trails makes a very interesting loop of about 6.5 km round trip. Bike Path: Roll peacefully through different habitats, taking in the mellow aromas of the Outaouais without the bother of cars and traffic lights: this is what the park's 26 km of trails has to offer you. Whether on the Petite Presqu'île and Grande Presqu'île trails in Plaisance or in our new Thurso sector on the Outaouais trails, which includes Presqu'île des Legault, the nature here will enchant you. You can rent bicycles at the Plaisance Visitors and Interpretation Centre and the Thurso Information Kiosk. A ferry service by pontoon boat will shuttle passengers between the Plaisance and Thurso sectors.
Yamaska	Parc national de la Yamaska will charm you with its highly varied vegetation. A witness to the history of the park's territory, Choinière reservoir is bordered by forests and meadows that provide a refuge for several animal species. In summer, the lake comes to life as water sports enthusiasts take to their kayaks, pedal boats, windsurfers and canoes. Winter activity enthusiasts will enjoy the gentle, rolling landscape of the Appalachians that may be seen all around Parc national de la Yamaska which is 100km from Sherbrook. Under Century-Old Branches: Relax under the branches of century-old trees in forests, made up mainly of maples covering a rolling landscape of Appalachian Lowlands. A Celebration of the Senses: Take in the fragrances that fill the air of Parc national de Yamaska. Forty species of trees, 41 species of shrubs, and some 425 species of herbaceous plants, have been identified by a number of botanists.

Sépaq Anticosti	Anticosti is not just any destination. Recognized as an exceptional territory for white-tailed deer hunting, this island is becoming more and more popular among vacationers. Its striking scenery and diversified natural environment make it the place for very exotic discoveries. For more than a century, this island located at the mouth of the St. Lawrence has been attracting salmon fishing enthusiasts to the fabulous Jupiter River. Whether you come to hunt, fish or vacation, you'll fall under its spell... Explore this unique environment - canyons, waterfalls, cliffs, caves - and observe abundant wildlife everywhere. On foot or by bicycle, horse or car, discover the many secrets of this mysterious island... Horseback Riding: discover the peaceful setting of Rivière Chicotte and Rivière aux Plats on horseback. Ride along kilometres of beach and keep your eyes peeled for deer, seals and bald eagles. Excursions with a guide are available at Chicotte-la-Mer. Sea Kayak: experience Anticosti from a new angle and admire its coasts, bays and cliffs while being comfortably seated... on the water! Surprise seals, whales, and porpoises in their natural environment. Expédition Agaguk offers guided one-day or half-day excursions from Pointe-Carleton.

Wildlife Reserves: Papineau-Labelle	160 km from Montreal, Réserve faunique de Papineau-Labelle is a great place to observe wildlife and offers attractive sites for the practice of outdoor activities, including sports hunting and fishing. The rich and diversified vegetation creates conditions that are very favourable for wildlife. Indeed, the reserve is home to large white-tailed deer, moose, and beaver populations. As for the many lakes, they are mainly inhabited by speckled trout and lake trout. There are 763 lakes and 42 streams and rivers with thriving populations of white-tailed deer, moose, Spruce Grouse, bear, wolf, beaver and fox, as well as many other species of mammals and birds.
